OF INTEREST TO STOCKMEN. Recommendations of State Live Stock Sanitary Boards.

"Lyon county will feed the usual number of cattless winter," said D. A. Stahl, of Emperia, Kas George R. Barse is back from St. Louis, where he spent several dars with his branch house which is being run by his son, W. H. Barse, and Jim Sin-cov. He says they are doing well, but the live stock trade there is a small after compared with Kansa-come to stay. Alex Gruckshank, of Junctin, id., who is here with a shipment of hurses now, used to be a patron of St. Leuis. He says this market is as good as St. Leuis and the charges here much less, which makes it a more profitable one for horsement of his section and their trade in the future will come here. He says:

"Yardage charges at St. Louis are 25 cents a bead. At Kansan City they are nothing. Commission charges there are it per head and at Kansas City only fit. The feed rates are the came, but in freight charges there is a hig sum in Kansas City a lavor. From Montana to St. Louis the rate is about 121 per car more than to Kansas City. These differences in rates would not amount to much on a single load, but when it comes to shapments of six ar eight cars up to a trainined the team is a big one.

"Last year, for instance," he continued. "I had a shipment of 252 horses, or eight cars, at St. Louis. The difference in freight in favor of Kansas City was 189s, in commissions, 1821, and in yardage, 170,50; total, $150,50. Beside this it takes from two to three days longer to make the trip to St. Louis."

The line stock synthese bounds, which closed their cept as previously recommended.

The following, presented by Br. D. E. Salmon, was adopted:

Besolived, That this association recommend the withdrawal of the quarantine regulations applying to cattle, on account of Southern fever, inspection from November 1 to January 1, 1988, provided that all cattle from below the quarantine line, destined for feeding in the states of Missouri, Kansas and Texas and territories of Okiahoma. New Mexico and Arriona, be inspected, and only allowed to proceed in case they are found free from ticks, and provided, further, that all inspected cattle in transit through the states and territories mentioned be treated as are infected cattle during the quarantine season.

First—Tuberculosis is a contagious disease.

Second—Tuberculosis prevails extensively in many parts of the United States and is spreading, excepting in unstabled beef producing herds, and in states that are combatting it actively.

Third—While the loases caused among cattle by this disease are large and sufficient to justify energetic effort to eradicate it, tuberculosis is also of mine importance on account of the intimate relation of this disease of cattle to the public health.

Forth—Tuberculin furnished by far the most accurate means that is at present available for recognizing tuberculosis in living animals and the mistakes made when it is carefully used are so few as to be of no practical importance.

Fifth—It is necessary that states shall authorize measures planned to suppress this disease, if it is not be permitted to continue to spread.

Sixth—This convention recommends that all states that have not already done so shall authorize and empower the proper authorities to adopt well planned and conservative measures to repel the encroachments of this disease and eradicate it where it is already established.
